INVITE GUESTS IN WITH A RUNNER

Think of a runner as the red carpet for your entryway—it's not just a floor covering, it's a design statement. Beyond adding a splash of color and visual intrigue, these long rugs are practical magic.

LIGHT AND OPEN ENTRYWAY

Sometimes, less truly is more. This Jersey City home's entryway is a breath of fresh air—literally. Uncluttered and bright, it's a tantalizing preview of the timeless beauty that awaits beyond the doorway.

GET CREATIVE WITH ARCHES

High ceilings are the supermodels of architectural features—and this foyer knows how to make them work. Arched woodwork draws the eye upward, creating a sense of grandeur.

ENTRYWAY FILLED WITH NATURAL MATERIALS

Nature meets sophistication in this entryway. Light wood flooring, a gray-washed Douglas fir console, woven baskets, and a brass chandelier create a space that's part rustic, part refined.

GO WITH LACQUER

Lacquered walls are the little black dress of interior design—always impactful, always sophisticated. This olive green space proves that shine never goes out of style.
